

SHE GETS MILLIONS AFTER HER MISERY

Mrs. Gaudin to Have an Immense Fortune Now That She Is Broken by Trials.

Barefooted and Starving, the Suffering Woman Tramped the Streets of Madrid.

HER HUSBAND WANTED HER TO DIE.

Executor of Her Aunt's Estate Finds Her After a Long Search, and Now the Plucky French Woman Will Get at Least $17,000,000.

Woven around the one great fact that Mrs. Eugénie Gaudin, of Woodliff, N. J., has unexpectedly fallen into a fortune estimated at nearly $17,000,000, is a story which if written by a novelist would be treated as fiction only. Yet every detail of it is true. The wonder of those who have heard it is how any woman could have crowded so many events into the fifty-two years of her life.

Married and divorced, her children dead, she has been a wanderer for years. She has walked the streets of Madrid homeless. She has started almost for want of the necessities of life. She has slept on hard boards for want of a bed. In fact, she is sleeping that way now.

"Yes, I will inherit something like $17,000,000," she said yesterday, in telling her story, "but I am too feeble now to enjoy very much of it. Twenty years ago it would have changed the whole course of my life. To-day it will bring no greater pleasure than the joy I shall feel in rewarding the friends who helped me in my hour of need."

There was nothing like exultation in the voice of Mrs. Gaudin as she spoke. Her father died when she was very young, and her mother had a difficult task in trying to educate and bring up her children. When Eugénie became old enough she was taught dressmaking, and it was by this means, in after life, that she made her living.

WAS A CRUEL RESPONSE. After the Franco-Prussian war, the Gaudin family refused to live in their native home as German subjects, so they started for Spain, and it was in Madrid that Eugénie met the man she afterwards married, and of which marriage three children were born.

"Twenty-six years ago," she said, "I buried the last of my children, and with them I buried all hope. My husband turned out a drunkard. All the money that I had saved, as well as considerable left me by my brother, who was a member of the Imperial Guard, he squandered, and she deserted me. I had been ill and wasted away. I was unable to work and was simply starving. I applied for a divorce, but the Spanish law was then very strict in the matter. I worked five years to obtain it. They would only grant divorce for abuse and violence. How I lived I do not know, but one day I wrote to my husband. I told him I was starving, and for God's sake to send me something that I might eat. He wrote back that he would give me nothing, and that the sooner I died the better.

"I took his letter to the court and on it obtained the divorce. The day the decree was granted I did not have a shoe to my feet, and my dress was in rags. I worked harder than ever then, and managed by dressmaking to save a small sum of money. Then I heard that my husband had become insane.

"What was I to do? Only one thing of course. So I went to where he was and had him conveyed to a private asylum at Barcelona. I supported him there for three years, when he died. I won't tell you his name. It is enough that I dropped it and resumed the maiden name of Gaudin."

Passing from this subject, Mrs. Gaudin, as she has been known for years, told her departure from Spain to Paris.

HER SEARCH PROVED FRUITLESS. There she set up a dressmaking establishment, and soon was doing quite an extensive business. She made dresses for many prominent women, among them were many Americans. It was while in Paris that she thought of looking up her aunt Emilie—her mother's sister, whom she had not seen or heard of in many years. While in France this aunt had married a man named Pinaud, and had started with him for South America. That was the last heard of her. The plucky French woman's health again failed. She was unable to attend to her business, and six years ago she was nearly penniless.

Among the American women in Paris who took an interest in Mrs. Gaudin was Mrs. Louise Jackson. The latter had read somewhere that Pinaud had amassed a large fortune in this country, and she supplied the dressmaker with money to come here.

On arriving and realizing the hopelessness of her task in searching for her lost relative, she began to work again as a dressmaker. She had many New York women as customers, and managed to save a few hundred dollars. With this she started for Woodliff and bought a couple of lots.

STILL ANOTHER MISFORTUNE CAME. She entered into a contract with a building and loan association to build a house for her. The plans contemplated a rather pretentious looking affair. She made two payments and the house had been nearly completed when the builder failed. Mechanical plans were placed on the unfinished house and she has been at war with the building association ever since.

"But I would not move out for them," she added. "I intended to stay it out, and I did. I have lived here ever since, with my big St. Bernard dog as my sole companion."

It appears that Pinaud, on crossing the ocean with his wife settled in South America and started a tannery. When the gold fever broke out Pinaud, who had made money, started for California. Not only did he work in the gold fields, but he started his wife in business. At the time of his death some years ago he left an estate valued at $34,000,000.

The couple had one daughter, who has since died. Mrs. Pinaud died six months ago, and by will left her interest in her husband's estate—$17,000,000—to her niece, Mrs. Gaudin. Two nephews of Pinaud will receive the other $17,000,000. The executor of the estate has been searching for Mrs. Gaudin ever since. He found her recently, proved to his satisfaction that she is the heiress, and has gone back to arrange about handing over the property.

Row Over Staten Island Police Bill.

Albany, April 23.—There was an old-fashioned political row in the Senate this morning over the Richmond County Police Bill. The Republicans made a covert attack on "Nick" Muller, the Democratic State Committeeman, which the Democratic Senators resented, and it was only after an hour of hot debate that the bill was forced through by party pressure.

The measure, which is fathered by Senator Higgins, empowers the county officers to name a bipartisan board. It was attacked by Senator Cantor as an unnecessary piece of legislation on account of the passage of the Greater New York Bill.

"It is decidedly necessary in order to prevent a repetition of the election frauds of two years ago," hotly retorted Senator Higgins.

"It is not needed for any purpose and ought to be recommitted," asserted Senator Cantor.

"The good Democrats of Richmond County join with the Republicans in demanding the passage of the bill," insisted Senator Wray.

This roused Senator Grady to retort: "There are neither good nor bad Democrats, and the distinction is an unfair one. This bill is a direct attack upon State Committeeman Muller, who is the Democratic leader of Richmond County, and not a man to join with the Republicans and the so-called 'good Democrats' in grabbing for spoils. It is nothing short of blackguardism to attack the character of a man in debating a bill."

It is his methods and not his character we attack," interposed Senator Wray. "I was a member of the committee which investigated the election frauds of two years ago in 1893," said Senator Malby, "and no legislation should be questioned which seeks to end such evils."

Senator Cantor's motion to recommit was beaten and the bill was passed by a party vote.

ROBBERS IN HER ROOM.

Mrs. Lonsdale Sat up in Her Bed and Saw the Thief—Bayoneted Infested With Bold Housebreakers.

Bayonet, N. J., April 23.—The gang of burglars who have been systematically working in this city have made three good hands already this week.

About one o'clock this morning Mrs. John P. Lonsdale, of No. 623 Avenue E, was awakened by a noise in her room. Sitting up in bed, she saw a man walk out of the door into the hall.

Mrs. Lonsdale screamed "Thieves! Burglars! Murder!"

Her husband was aroused by her cries and he gave chase, but the thief had disappeared.

Meanwhile Mrs. Lonsdale had opened a window and looked out into the street below. The fellow asked what the trouble was, and she answered "Burglars!" Instantly the man gave a shrill whistle and a yell, and then scattered down Avenue E.

The police were notified and Detective Griffin went to the Lonsdales' residence. Griffin met four men walking up Thirty-third street from Avenue D. The officer asked him what he was doing so early in the morning, and receiving a doubtful story, placed him under arrest.

Mrs. Lonsdale identified Dowd as the man she saw in the street. He was looked down by Griffin, and the robbers jumped the rear fence and broke into the residence of Benjamin Richards, No. 80 West Thirty-third street. They got away with a watch, a quantity of jewelry and a large number of robes which were being committed during the past six months, and the police seem unable to stop them.

WANSER'S APPOINTMENTS.

Hardenburg and Jones Are Not Among the Favored Ones, Because They Interfered with the Mayor's Plans.

Mayor Wanser, of Jersey City, yesterday made the following appointments: Police Commissioner, Hugh H. Abernethy, Republican; reappointed; term three years; salary, $1,000.

Fire Commissioner, John Brennan, Republican; reappointed; term three years; salary, $1,000.

Tax Commissioner, James H. Love, Republican; reappointed; term three years; salary, $2,000.

Sinking Fund Commissioner, James Haskins, Democrat; reappointed; term three years; salary, $2,000.

Free Library Trustees, Stephen L. Harvey, Democrat; reappointed; term five years; salary, $2,000.

Finance Commissioners, Henry Brantigan, Republican, to succeed John M. Jones, Republican, and John M. Jones, Republican, to succeed J. W. Hardenburg, Democrat; term two years; salary, $500.

Commissioner and President of the Finance Board, it was stated, were not reappointed because they had severed ties with the Mayor. Wanser's plans regarding a new water supply, all the new officials took the oath of office yesterday.

Six appointments are to be made in the Board of Education on May 1. The terms of Corporation Counsel Blair and Corporation Attorney Weart expire on May 25. They will both be reappointed.

HE FELT THE DISGRACE.

Lawyer Cunningham in Court to Answer Ellen Burke's Charge.

New Brunswick, N. J., April 23.—J. Dixon Cunningham, a well-known lawyer of this city, was called to plead in court this morning to an indictment sent in by the last Grand Jury for obtaining $1,800 from Ellen Burke, a client, under false pretenses. Mr. Cunningham was arrested several days ago and has been in jail ever since, unable to obtain bail.

He took his seat with various prisoners who had been indicted for various crimes, and felt his position so keenly that he almost fainted away. Howard Macy, Esq., appeared for Mr. Cunningham and asked the Court to appoint an early day for the trial. The Court fixed upon May 6. (Upon application of Mr. Macy, the Court had reduced to $500, and it is thought that Cunningham will be released soon.)

Cunningham is charged by Ellen Burke, a domestic, with receiving $1,800 from her for fees and expenses for procuring a claim against the estate of the late Ezekiel Patterson. Miss Burke had been employed by Patterson for many years as nurse. Cunningham, it is alleged, told her that he had begun suit in the Supreme Court for her, and made demands upon her at different times for money. Investigation showed that Cunningham had not made the first move to bring suit. Cunningham recently opened an office in South Amboy. His father is a large property owner.

Death of Ex-Judge Rankin. Ex-Judge William Boyd Rankin died of vertigo late Wednesday night at No. 63 Madison avenue, Jersey City, the residence of his daughter, Mrs. H. W. R. Kolster. The interment will be in Greenwood tomorrow. Ex-Judge Rankin was born in Philadelphia, March 11, 1832. He was a Democrat and served as first Governor of Washington Territory. He left a widow and four daughters.

RASH LEAP FOR LIBERTY.

Desperate Prisoner Slips His Handcuffs and Jumps from a Flying Car.

Plucky South Orange Constable Follows Him and the Two Land in a Heap.

THEY HAVE A LIVELY STRUGGLE.

The Officer Is the Victor and Now the Prisoner's Leg Is in Splints—He Had Just Been Released from the Penitentiary.

Newark, N. J., April 23.—People on South Orange avenue, in the vicinity of Camden street, to-day saw two men jump from a rapidly moving trolley car and roll over and over on the pavement. One of the men thrashed his head, but the other lay on the pavement groaning with pain.

The one who was Constable Henry Trenchard, of South Orange, and the other was Martin Doyle, a prisoner, who had attempted to escape. He got a broken leg for his folly.

Doyle, who is a small, wiry man about forty years of age, was released from the penitentiary yesterday. He went to his former home in South Orange in search of his wife. He learned that she was at work for Mrs. Elizabeth Edwards, and went in search of her. Mrs. Edwards denied him admission to her house, whereupon he struck her. He was arrested, and this morning Justice O'Reilly, of South Orange, committed him to the County Jail to await the action of the upper courts.

Constable Trenchard placed handcuffs on Doyle, and, boarding a South Orange trolley car, started with the prisoner for the County Jail in this city.

When the car reached Camden street Doyle slipped the handcuffs, made a dash for the rear door and sprang from the platform. Trenchard was close behind him, and he, too, sprang and landed on top of Doyle, who had fallen when he jumped. He seized the prostrate prisoner and they rolled over and over on the pavement.

When Trenchard arose he found that the prisoner was badly hurt. He was also injured himself. The car from which they jumped was stopped, and Doyle was helped aboard of it and taken to the corner of Market and Broad streets. Doyle was found in a store and Police Surgeon Clark, who had been summoned, placed the injured limb in splints and Doyle was then removed to the jail in the ambulance.

CAVE WAS THEIR SHELTER.

Family Had Been Evicted When the Mother was Too Ill to Leave Her Bed.

Summit, N. J., April 23.—Overseer of the Poor McGrath to-day found the family of John Fitzpatrick, in which there are three small children and a sick mother, and who had been evicted from an old rookery on Springfield avenue, living in a cave about 125 feet from the street.

When the family was evicted on Monday their few pieces of furniture were placed in the street. The car from which they were taken away and the members of the family disappeared. Overseer McGrath went to search for the family. He found the wife lying on a mattress in the cave which is in a secluded spot. She and the children had been there for two or three nights, and there they had also spent the days without food.

The wife was too ill to rise from the bed and the children were afraid to leave her side. The nearest residence was almost a mile distant.

A warrant has been issued for Fitzpatrick's arrest and the family will be taken charge of by the township.

GOV. GRIGGS IS FIRM.

Second Brigade Must Pay Its Own Transportation in Attending Rifle Practice at Sea Girt.

Passaic, N. J., April 23.—General Bird W. Spencer returned this morning from Trenton, where he went to meet Governor Griggs, and to discuss with him the proposed plan for the Second Brigade to attend rifle practice at Sea Girt.

The difference amounted to the cost of transportation for the troops from the Second and counting on Colonel Murray as an authority, they reduced the appropriation and excluded the Second from the list. But it is no use, as the result of today's consultation, that one week's practice will be allowed all commands except the Second Brigade, which are to go to late camp.

Major-General Sewell will be in command, and following him will be the First, Second and Fourth regiments, while for rifle practice, one week being allowed each regiment.

FALLING PLANK STRUCK HIM.

Montclair Lawyer Met with a Serious Accident in New York.

Montclair, N. J., April 23.—R. M. Boyd, Jr., a prominent young lawyer of this place, is confined to his home on Fallerton avenue, because of injuries received in an accident a few days ago at the Barclay street ferry, New York. He was struck on the head and rendered unconscious by a falling plank.

Boyd, after he recovered consciousness, was taken home. It will be some time before he will be able to resume his business.

TRAMP INCENDIARIES AT FRANKLIN.

Franklin, N. J., April 23.—Some time during last night the carpenter shop of Dowd & Co. at Delawanna, near this place, was set on fire by tramps and completely destroyed, together with its contents. The loss is estimated at $3,000.

RESIDENCE DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Hackensack, N. J., April 23.—The residence of John M. Robinson, at Tea Neck, near here, was destroyed by fire to-day. The loss is estimated at $7,000.

SALES OF VACANT LOTS.

Many Transfers of Unimproved City Property Reported, with Several Other Transactions.

Much of the recent private selling in real estate is confined to vacant lots. Several such sales were reported yesterday on top of Wednesday's purchase by Francis M. Jencks, of the block of twenty-six lots, bounded by the Boulevard, East end avenue, Ninetieth and Ninety-third streets.

L. Z. Bach and T. J. McLaughlin have purchased from a Mr. Gihle the plot of eleven lots on the south side of One Hundred and Forty-fifth street, between St. Nicholas and Convent avenues.

Mr. McLaughlin has purchased from the same owner the plot of four lots at the southeast corner of One Hundred and Forty-fifth street and Convent avenue, giving in exchange the valuable apartment house at Park avenue and Sixty-fifth street.

Jane R. Hall has sold to J. Early, through Slawson & Hobbs, the seven lots at the southeast corner of Manhattan avenue and West One Hundred and Twenty-third street.

Builder John Casey has purchased four lots at the northeast corner of Seventy-second street and Avenue C, at a cost of $200,000. Mr. Huns buys this property for investment.

Charles Knapp, who owns a large tract of One Hundred and Thirtieth street, has sold to Mr. Huns the house No. 1228 Simpson street, $25,000. Charles Edell, for $5,000, has sold to Mr. Huns a lot at a cost of $85,000, from plans by Architect John Hauser, four lots at the northeast corner of One Hundred and Thirtieth street and Madison avenue.

Colonel S. W. C. Crago is making alterations on the lot at the southeast corner of One Hundred and Thirtieth street and Madison avenue, which drew a great gathering of investors and speculators, was bid in.

The Inland, Auctioneers Peter F. Meyer & Co. offered Nos. 38 and 39 Wall street, and a lot holding a five-story office building and the half of a four-story brick building on Wall street and a four-story brick building on Pine street. The other half of the building stands on ground owned by George J. W. Wetmore, who bought from the Jones estate at the same time that the Inland did.

Although the bids were made for the lot parcel, running as high as $302,000, generally regarded as a fair price for 6,000 square feet of ground in the heart of the city, the Inland refused to let the property go.

These are the only lots in the large contingent of bidders which was drawn to the Broadway auction in expectation of the offering of a street and lot in the heart of the city, belonging to the estate of the late Elizabeth W. Kennedy, who died in 1884.

The sale, which had been adjourned from last week, was without success, the bidders having divided the property without recourse to a public sale. The City and County of New York, through the Inland, are the owners of the property.

William Kennedy sold, in foreclosure, the plot 92x100.11, on the north side of West Ninety-third street, 223 feet east of Columbus avenue, to H. C. Brown, for $25,000. The plot is a half part of No. 322 Monroe street, 22x70, three-story brick building, to E. A. Nagle, as general guardian, plaintiff, for $3,700.

George R. Reed sold, in foreclosure, No. 90 West 101st street, to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, plaintiff, for $23,000. William L. Kennedy sold the lot 12x100.11, on East Twelfth street, 23x100.5, five-story brownstone building, to J. J. Jackson, for $10,000.

Bryan L. Kennedy sold the lot 12x100.11, on East Twelfth street, 23x100.5, five-story brownstone building, to J. J. Jackson, for $10,000. But one auction sale takes place to-day. William Kennedy has bid at No. 111 Broadway, between the City and County of New York, first street, 20x18.9, three-story brick dwelling.

TREAT FOR ART LOVERS.

Montclair Club Will Exhibit a Fine Collection of Paintings and Statuary in Their Parlor.

Montclair, N. J., April 23.—The lovers of fine painting and statuary will have a treat next week in a display of the work of prominent artists, when a loan collection will be exhibited in the parlors of the Montclair Club.

On Monday the exhibition will open with a private view for club members, while on Friday and Saturday next the public will be invited.

The pictures and statuary will be from the studios or homes of Montclair. Works of the late George Inness, L. C. Earle, Harry Penn, J. Scott Hartley, Walter Greenough, J. Tubby King, Charles Warren Eaton, Wyant R. Swain, Gifford and others will form the collection.

The committee having the matter in charge consists of Robert M. Boyd, Jr.; John F. White, Thomas Jefferson, George R. Frick, E. P. Ramsey, W. I. Lincoln Adams, L. C. Earle, J. Scott Hartley and Harry Penn.

TIERED SALESWOMEN.

EMPLOYERS SHOULD BE MORE CONSIDERATE.

Interesting Statement by a Young Lady in Brooklyn.

In the vast retail establishments of large cities, many women are employed as saleswomen. Men formerly held the positions that women now hold, and while women's organization is less strong than men's they are expected to do the same work. Their duties compel them to be on their feet from morning to night, and many of them, in a short time, contract these distressing complaints called "female diseases."

Then occur irregularities, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, indigestion, leucorrhoea, general debility and nervous prostration.

They are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness.

In such cases there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. The following is a sample:

"My dear Mrs. Pinkham:—After writing you, and before your answer came, I was too miserable to go to the store, and so lost my position. That was five weeks ago. I am now back again in my old place, and never felt so well in all my life. The bearing-down pains and whites have left me, and I am not a bit nervous or blue. Life looks brighter to me. I don't get tired, my temper is real sweet, and I could scream right out sometimes for joy."

Your Vegetable Compound is my standby. You don't know how thankful I am to you for saving me from suffering.

Every woman in my position should know of your wonderful remedy. I never saw you, but I love you for being so good to me."
